CLASS PROPHECY

Having just ridden the rails into Hayes Center, we decided to drop in on our old class mates for a meal.

We first went to a large industrial plant, where we found Garland Swanson, who manufactures mechanical pencil sharpeners and installes escalators in school, as that was always his biggest job in school; hsarpending pencils and climbing stairs.

Going on down the street we came to a baby sitting agency in which Jim Norman was manager; seems as though he was always trying to baby-sit in high school, so he went into the profession. Jim told us that he had seen Bud Richter in town about six months ago. He said that Bud had become a hermit since having studied in Sociology that it would be cheaper to live alone; also since he had so much trouble with the girls, he decided for sure on being a hermit. He only come to town once a year to get supplies.

When coming out of Jim Norman's agency we met Ila Loomis who was home on a furlough from the Wac's. She is a bugler in the Wacs; she decided she would get that job of getting people up early, since she couldn't seem to do so herself in high school. Ilattold of seeing Dean Anderson in a circus; he now holds the title of being the champion fire eater of the West. Deloris Graves is the manager of the circus, and talk is that Dean and Deloris will soon team up.

Ronnie Strop has gone to Africa on a big game hunt. Seems as though he could never find anything to chase in high school. He is hunting for a lion because Art Soncksen who has the job of twisting the tail of the lion to make him roar with Metro-Golden Mayer, finally twisted the tail off.

Gwen Hanley is a great opera singer and trumpet player for the Hayseed Chorus and Band of Hayes Center; with Phyllis Glee as drummer and director. Phyllis is still trying to get a band started in Elsie but it appears as only one person from Elsie is interested.

We happened to go by a store window and saw Gates typewriters for sale. These typewriters were named after Wayne Gates, who is the world's champion typist. He can type one hundred sixty words per minute. Just a few more than he could in high school--one hundred forty-three more, that is.

Going by the shop building we heard the shop teacher, Kenneth Kinney giving the shop boys a lecture on how to use sand paper and hack saw blades. It seemed like old times to hear that because we were always hearing Mr. Harder lecture to Kenneth on how to use sand paper and saw blades.

Shirley Garrett has become a reporter, and is known as Polly Pry. The editor informed us that ~~he~~ interviews a criminal while he is committing the crime and gets to-morrows news last week.

Joel Goucher is now a great inventor. He has invented a Restwell mattress for oyster beds; a bommerrang collar button that will return to the person that dropped them and exercises for reducing one's income tax.

George Miller is manager of the famous Eat and Run Restaurant, and married Verla Anderson, who is a great pancake flopper. George spends most of his time at his hobby, analyzing hash.

We saw a billboard picture of Marilyn Anderjaska. She is the star of a new motion picture, "Waiting for the Fleet to Come In." Seems as though she was doing that her Senior year.

Phyllis LaShell is now owner of a bus line from Elsie to Hayes Center. She always did think that certain people from Elsie should come to Hayes Center often and so has provided the way.

The only one of our class who really did settle down was Hazel Ward, who has just been picked the model housewife of Hayes County.

Last but not least we found that Lloyd Christner is an auctioneer for a tobacco plant; Sheldon Fuller is the manager and tester.

Sincerely,
Robert McNutt
Jim Laird

S N E A K D A Y

The Seniors accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Hanley and Pam and Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Counce, left Hayes Center, Thursday evening, May 1, 1930. We drove to Atwood, Kansas, where the bus broke down and it was about daylight when we again started on our way to Colorado Springs. We arrived at the Springs about three O'clock and checked in at the Acacia Hotel. That afternoon everyone did what they wanted.

On Saturday we went to Canyon City, where we visited the State Prison. Most of the students bought articles made by the prisoners. Later in the day we went up to Royal Gorge and saw the great suspension bridge and much beautiful mountain scenery. Most of the party took the trip down to the bottom of the Gorge. Many pictures were taken and most of the students purchased curios.

Sunday we went to the Cave of the Winds, where most of the Seniors invested in Alpine hats. After seeing the sights here we journeyed to the Garden of the gods and enjoyed the scenery here.

Sunday afternoon we went back to the Acacia, checked out our baggage and headed for home, arriving in Hayes Center about midnight, tired but happy.

C L A S S H I S T O R Y

In September of 1948 the halls of Hayes County High School opened its doors to 28 Freshmen, now the class of '52. During our Freshman year we gained Lula Hidy and lost Junior Crapson. Miss Ehler was our sponsor this year.

When we entered H.C. H.S. as Sophomores we lacked Paul Palic, who discontinued his schooling at the end of his Freshman year but gained Doris French and Junior Crapson. During the second semester Raymond Mosley moved to Colorado. Mr. Hanzal was our sponsor.

At the end of our Sophomore year Junior Crapson moved to another town and attended there; Doris French and Anita Crooks both discontinued their schooling; Joel Goucher left us to attend a Military Academy; and Bernard Anderjaska left us to attend a school at Sidney. Our Junior year we gained Shelley Fuller and Verla Anderson, both of whom had previously attended school at Curtis. During our Junior year we presented the play "Aunt Jerushy" on the Warpath" and entertained the Seniors at a Spanish banquet. Mrs. Counce was our sponsor.

At the end of our Junior year Nona Berry discontinued her schooling; Lula Hidy moved to McCook and attended school there; Carl Yonkers attended the School of Agriculture at Curtis. For our Senior year Joel Goucher returned to our ranks. This now making us a total of 23 members in the class of '52. Mr. Hanley was our sponsor.

SENIOR PLAY

The Senior Play "Oh Aunt Jerusha" was presented at the High School auditorium May 12th and 13th, by a cast of 26 students.

J U N I O R P L A Y

The Junior Play "Digging Up the Dirt" was presented December 6th and 7th. This comedy had the scenes laid in the Southwest. A professor of archaeology and two of his college pupils are living in an old adobe shack in New Mexico and excavating Pueblo ruins. They hope to find the answer to the great problems of life in the remains of an ancient civilization, but all they find is a skunk. When the play opens the two boys are clad simply in underwear and blankets. The arrival of a party of relatives and girls on a visit of inspection precipitates a most amusing scene in which the young fellows pretend to be native Indians with terrible misunderstanding all around. Later, the Professor is struck down by a mysterious assailant and more complications develop.

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET

On April 26, 1952, fifty-eight guests gathered at the I. O. O. F Hall for the annual Junior-Senior banquet.

The Juniors were honored to have as guests twenty-three Seniors, the Board of Regents, Faculty and their spouses, Mr. & Mrs. LaShell and Mr. and Mrs. Gale West.

A colonial theme was carried out in the table decorations and in the waiters' costumes. The center pieces were colonial figurines, placed on either side of low vases of pink and white carnations, the Senior's class flower. Candles in groups of three were placed at intervals on the long white tables. These pink and white candles were festooned with tiny pink and white carnations. Small colonial dolls, attired in coral and gray for the Seniors; and in white and green for the Juniors were placed at each table setting for favors. Dainty parasols held by the dolls served as nut cups.

On each side of the post in the center of the hall large baskets of pink and white carnations were placed. On posts at either end of the hall colonial lamps were hung.

The over head and three sides of the hall were decorated to give the effect of a rainbow. The following colors were used: Green, blue, lavender, pink, orange and yellow. At the farthest end of the hall was a flower garden behind a stone wall. At the other end a picket fence was used to give you the impression of entering into a colonial garden. The piano was decorated with a large spotlight to represent the moon. There were also candles and a small vase of flowers surrounded with colonial dolls on the piano. The tables were arranged in a "C" formation.

The waitresses were attired in old fashioned dresses of pink pique and gray net overskirts, with which they wore white ballerinas.

The waiters wore long-tailed gray coats with gray trousers fashioned colonial style. Pink ruffled shirts completed their outfits.

Those serving were: Ethylee Cox, Shirley Laird, Marjorie Ring, Mary Ann Soncksen, Kaye Carmin, Jack Bishop, Roland Anderjaska, Donnie Curran and Dean Mintling.

The following menu was prepared by the mothers of the Juniors.

Darky Yonkers was somewhat perturbed over Shirley's spending. He finally said, "Can't you see that you're driving me to the poor house?" "Driving me eye", she replied, "Your'e walking." "The finance company took the car this afternoon."

Phyllis Glee: "I'm trying to think of another word for throat."

Boy Friend: "Oh! neck."

Phyllis: "Thanks, I don't mind if I do."

Jim Garrett: "Do you think Naomi Tidyman knows very much about autos?"

Geo. Miller: "Nope. She thinks you cool the motor by stripping the gears."

Why is Jack Loomis pacing up and down in front of their house? He is awfully worried about Hazel, poor chap. Why, what has she got? The family car."

Young Husband: "I suppose you will threaten to go home to mother after this?"

Phyllis LaShell: "I'll do nothing of the kind. I'm gonna bring her here."

Miss Chapin: "What is the Order of the Bath, Joel?"

Joel Goucher: "Pa first, then Maw, us kids, and then the hired girl."

Hazel Ward: "I can tell you one thing the only man who ever kissed me is my husband."

Verla Anderson: "Bragging or complaining?"

Mr. Fanning who was driving his car with his wife in the back seat stalled the car on the railroad track, as the train was approaching. Val screamed, "Go Go!" Bill said calmly, "You've been driving all day from the back seat, I've got my end across--now you see what you can do with your end."

Ila Loomis: "Darling, will you love me when my hair has turned gray?"

Swede: "Why not, dear? I've loved you through four other colors."

Kaye Carmin: "Is it dangerous to drive with one hand?"

Shelley F: "You bet more than one fellow has run into a church by doing it."

Bryce: Placing his hands over Marilyn's eyes "I'm going to kiss you if you can't tell me who it is in three guesses."

Marilyn: "Winston Churchill, Joe Stalin, Abraham Lincoln?"

Phyllis West: "You've got enough tin in your ear to make a tea kittle."

Wilma Palic: "and you've got enough water in your head to fill it."

Deloris Graves: "and between you there is enough gas to bring it to a boil."

Richard Greeley: "Darling, please say that you'll be mine. I'm not rich like Jim Stanley and I haven't a big car or a fine house, but I can't live without you."

Denyse: "I love you too Richard, but where is this man Stanley?"

June West: "I am only 17 and I stayed out till two the other night. My mother objects. Do you think I did wrong, Kenneth?"

Kenneth Kinney: "Try to remember."

Just before Christmas Wayne Gates handed in an exam. peper in Am. Gov. He had written on the paper: "God only knows the answers to these questions. Merry X-mas." Across the paper Leo wrote: God gets an A; you get an F. Happy New Year."

Jim Laird: "Your eyes fascinate me--they're beautiful. I can see dew in them."

Devona: "Take it easy Romeo. That isn't do---that's don't."

Clifford McGregor: "This dog is worth five hundred dollars."

Dean Anderson: "How could a dog save that much?"

Psychiatrist: "Are you troubled by improper thoughts?"

Garland Swanson: "To tell the truth, doctor, I rather enjoy them."

With her hand on the light switch Ada paused in her chatter to inquire: "Is everything shut up for the night, Stew?" Out of the darkness came his patient reply: "Everything else, dear."

Janice Felker: "How dare you strike a defenseless woman?"

Bud Richter: "Let me up and I'll show you."

Lloyd Christner joined the army and became a cook. He had just whipped up orders of fried eggs for a hungry mob of soldiers. Wearied by his effort, he sat down and wrote this letter to his sweetheart. "Darling, he began, "for the past 3 hours shells have been bursting all around me."

Jim Alexander: "Didn't Ethylee let you kiss her?"
Rodney Leffler: "Heck NO! She isn't that kind."
Jim: "She was to me."

Del. Richter: "Woman is nothing but a rag, a bone, and a hank of hair."
Gwen Hanley: "Man is nothing but a brag, a groan, and a tank of air."

Miss Green arrived at her first ball game during the fifth inning. "The score is nothing to nothing" she heard Bill Fanning say. "Oh, good," she exclaimed to him "Then I haven't missed a thing."

Red McNutt: "What kind of lipstick is that?"
Claribel: Kiss proof."
Red: "Well, rub it off. We got work to do."

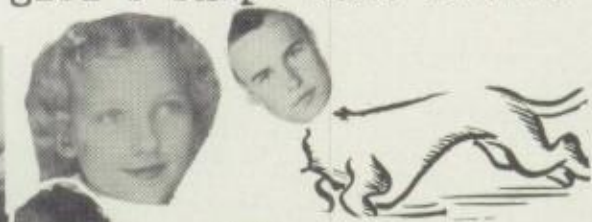

Employer: "You ask high wages for a man with no experience."
Jim Norman: "Well, it's so much harder to work when you don't know anything about it."

Art Soncksen sent this letter to his best girl in a Christmas greeting: "You are a dear, sweet girl. May God bless you and keep you. I wish I could afford to."

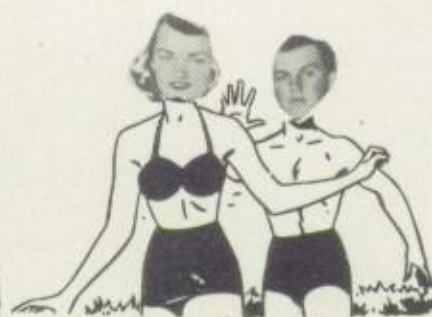

Hardy had gone fishing and left Florence at home. Asked where her husband might be, she replied, "Just go out to Camp Hayes and look around until you find a pole with a worm on each end."

Marjorie Ring: "I saw you flirting with that girl from Palisade."
Ronnie Strop: "I wasn't flirting. Something got in my eye."
Marjorie: "She got in your car too."

Kenneth Kinney: "What's a controversial figure?"
Ronnie S: "That's when you're not sure how much of a girl's shape came from a store."
